What would happen if I attend the course?

You are the center of attention whenever you are with people. You talk to everyone and everyone talks to you. It appears that you are leading the conversation and everybody wants to spend some time with you. They want to be next to you and they ask your opinion on different matters.

Your mobile is always ringing. You are very popular and everybody seeks your attention.

You meet new people easily and you manage to have them like you within minutes. You make new friends easily and you handle conflict and disagreement with ease and elegance.

Many people wonder how you have managed to achieve so many things with people without being an expert in the field of communication. Others want to know where have you learned so many things and how can you be in rapport with everyone.
